Flower Power: 7 Floral Cocktails To Close Out The Summer

by Conor Lane · August 24, 2016

September is looming on the horizon and all of the page-a-day calendar pages bearing August dates, lying in a crumpled heap in the corner, are starting to make you wonder where the hell your summer went. Thankfully, there's a drink for this feeling. There are a bunch of drinks, in fact, that will make you feel like you're sipping on the summer that you let slip through your fingers. Don't worry friend, all will be well when we are inebriated. Floral inspired in more ways than one, these summery spirits are designed to help you stuff all your sorries in a sack and get you looking ahead to summer's last waltz with hope instead of reluctance.

Peony Blossom

If you're really searching for some herbal essence - look no further than the Peony Blossom. Peony Vodka was created by Three Meadows Spirits founder Leslie Farhangi, and it is inspired by the uncomplicated country-living lifestyle found in Dutchess County in upstate New York. With a smooth, citrusy finish, the Peony Blossom is the way to go.

Peony Blossom

- 2 Oz. Peony Vodka
- 1 Oz. Blood Orange Liqueur
- Stir With Ice
- Strain Into a Fluted Glass
- Top With Champaign or Prosecco
- Garnish With a Sprig of Lemon Balm
